

Bobby Moser Retiring as Dean of Ohio State University's College of Food, Ag & Environmental Sciences

Bobby Moser has announced he will retire as Dean of Ohio State University's College of Food, Ag & Environmental Sciences. He will stay on during a transitional period and will consider new University assignments once the search is completed in about two years. Moser is a UNL Animal Science PhD swine nutrition graduate and he served on the faculty until his move to Missouri to take his first administrative position. The entire news release about Moser's retirement is at: <http://www.farmanddairy.com/news/ohio-state-universitys-ag-deanbobby-moser-to-retain/29199.html>