

Roy's Window

Stained glass window in Animal Science building, in memory of Roy Carlson

He has left us a special bequest-- the gift of radiant sun through pristine stained glass, red and blue circles reflecting a lifetime of animal work and the craft of creation with brilliant pieces of glass.

Prisms are cast across to the farther west wall, a blurred version of the circle.

Late morning I see sparkling prisms on the north wall, place my hand into the design cast there,
feeling the warmth of the red and blue, feeling this wonderful gift of light and color.

*Nancy L. Savery
Secretary, Physiology Suite Morning, April 6, 2007
Animal Science Student Commons/Arena*